CD6, p.411. Oswald literature distribution, Lawrence Bright, Ozanam Inn, (Father Anthony), other Cubans.

What is not in this report is some of the more interesting data. Question: What was Bright doing in Cuba long enough to become fluent in Spanish? Father Anthony's name (or connection of one so designated with an inn). Why should Cubans, undoubtedly already well aware of Oswald through Bringuier, be so surprised at this peaceful repetition without reference to the earlier adventure? Who ever head of a blond Cuban? How did Bright know Oswald? The report does not say "of" Oswald. Why was he questioned? Where? Was it to complain that the Cubans went to him? Knowing more of Bright might be worth the trouble required. Do we learn more of these two Cubans? If they do not check out, what of Bright?
